There's Something Fascinating About P.-D. Wants. Did You Ever Note It?

HARRY NEWBOLD'S LIFE CRUSH-ED OUT OF HIM.

A WELL-KNOWN CHARACTER.

For Twenty-Five Years He Had Bee the Official Photographer for the Police Department.

While running along the tracks of the St. Louis and Suburban Railway at Elia avenue at 7:30 o'clock Thursday morning Harry D. Newbold, for many years official photographer of the St. Louis Police De-partment, was struck by motor car No. 163 and almost instantly killed.

He was hurled into the air across a passenger platform at the west side of the track and down an incline, about twenty eet. His back was broken, the side of his face crushed and his right leg splintered. Newbold received a message from Chief f Detectives Desmond Wednesday night hat he would be needed at an earlier hou than usual Thursday morning. He accordingly left his home at 6111 Ella avenue a ingly left his home at 6111 Ella avenue at 7:30 o'clock and ran to catch a car. Car No. 183 was coming rapidly southward and Newbold tried to reach the passenger platform in order to board it. He was compelled to cross the tracks.

The only eye-witness to the tragedy, besides employes of the railroad company, was William McKon, a 17-year-old colored boy. He states that as Newbold ran along the north-bound track, waving his hand at the meiorneer of the south-bound car as a signal to stop, a north-bound car bore down yard of her house when the accident oc-curred.

According to McKoin, the south-bound car did not stop until it had gone far past the spot where Newbold was killed and the flext car behind had reached the platform.

"Then the car was backed up," said McKoin, "and about fifteen minutes afterward a stretcher was brought up on a car from De Hodiamont. The man was picked up nd carried into the house."

Before the stretcher arrived Mrs. White ad gone to Newbold's assistance, bathing is face with water. She was ministering the dead. Drs. Bracy and Potts, who gere called, stated that death was almost assantaneous.

Judge Trumbull was born at Colchester, New London County, Conn., in 1813. For more than sixty years his has been a life of ceaseless activity. He has been school teacher, lawyer and judge. He has played his part in politics on the scump, in the halls of Congress, in the deliberations of parties and as a non-combatant counselor. In the beginning he was an anti-slavery Democrat. As a Republican he fought side by side with Lincoln and the men who founded the Republican party of to-day. Then his party, as he thought, departed from its true mission and followed a line his conscience would not indorse. Resolutely he turned his back on his former associates and became a Democrat. In the later years of his life he parted company with that party. He took such a ground against the extension of power of the United States courts that he became the hope of the Populists, and, in a sense, their counselor. And all the time men of both parties respected him. Judge Trumbull's last appearance in a court room was made as counsel for the American Railway Union officers before the Supreme Court at Washington.

Only once since then has he appeared in public, it was at a mass meeting in Central Music Hall, where he spoke at length on the causes of discontent among the industrial classes. He dwelt on the neroachment of the Federal courts upon he constitutional rights of the people and mphasised the point that deliverance from department, it were easier to imagine than to estimate the number of pictures he had made during that time. Every picture now in the Rogues' Gallery of St. Louis is Newbold's work, and there is not a city of any importance in the United States where he is not known on account of the pictures that bear his name. Most of the negatives were developed at Geneill's and Fox's galleries. Mr. Newbold had no place of his own, but was negotiating with the Board of Police Commissioners to have a room fitted up at the Four Courts where the Police Department work could be attended to exclusively. Department work could be attended to exclusively.

This arrangement would have insured greater expedition and would have been of benefit to the department.

Mr. Newbold bore a striking resemblance to Hermann, the magician. This was particularly true four or five years ago, when he was just past his prime.

He had a jaunty bearing and this characteristic was accentuated by a particular shape of cap he invariably wore and the cut of his beard.

He was a familiar figure around the Four Courts and was generally liked because of his cheery disposition. ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE TRIP.

The work of organizing the Eland forces in St. Louis into a marching club to go to Chicago is progressing rapidly and favor-ably. The various sub-committees appointed to look after the multitude of details meet almost daily and are making enuraging reports.

The prospects are that fully 2,000 men, uniformed according to the design adopted, will be found in the Marching Club of St. uis Blandites at Chicago. They will carry about a half dozen of the finest bands in the city with them. They will leave home in a special train Sunday morning, July 5, and will probably live in their cars at Chicago. The entire party will be under the direct control of Lieut.-Gov. John B. O'Meara, who has been the direct control of the control

Following is the financial plank of the planform in full:
"We favor the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver into anadard money without discrimination against either, and at the ratio of its oi, which standard money at the ratio of its oi, which standard money at the ratio of its oi, which standard money of the country shall consist of the money of the country shall consist of the money of the country shall consist of the holder; and, in this connection, we demand that the practice of the Treasury Department in refusing to pay coin notes in silver, the same as in gold, shall be discontinued, because the same is an unwarranted use of power, which results in making the Federal Congress making gold and privace, thereafter contracted, without reference to any contract or agreement that the debt shall be paid in some particular kind of money, reserving alone to the Federal Government the right to designate the kind of money, reserving alone to the Federal Government the right to designate the kind of money in which customs and dues may be paid."

LYMAN TRUMBULL DEAD. A large and enthusiastic meeting of Democrats of the Eleventh Ward was held at $227 Meramec street for the purpose of organizing a uniformed company of silver Democrats to attend the Chicago Convention. Vice-Presidents Jos. F. Dickmann and John C. Lohrum of the St. Louis Silver Club were present and assisted in organizing a company of twenty-five members. Another meeting will be held next Monday evening at 2883 Osage street. All Democrats are invited to be present.

Compared With Cyrus Walbridge, the Great Disciple of filence.

Mayor Walbridge is slowly but surely acquiring the reputation of being the hardest man to interview in St. Louis; not that he is hard to get at or talk to, but simply because he will not talk.

He smiles most genially and his bald head and his spectacles actually shine with pleasure at meeting the reporter, but he has nothing to say. He "really does not see what there is to be said." He is sure that he "has no opinions to express" on the subject. Then he most persuasively and kindly offers the visitor a cigar, pats him on the back and slides into the rear office to meditate upon the pros and consoft the campaign for Governor.

The other day an ambitious young journalist was sent to intervit whis honor. The condition precedent to his setting a steady job was that he should of alin an interview with the Mayor on any subject whatever, barring patent medicines and blegeles.

He was a courageous young man and ambitious. He saw the field of journalism and literature opening out before him. He approached the Mayor after a brief parley with the talkative and diplomatic Secretary Clarkson, who was in the midst of a group of ward politicians.

"Good morning, Your Honor. Have you any information of importance or interest that you desire to communicate to the "Good morning," said His Honor; "I am glad to see you."

"Have you fired any Filley benchmen to-day?"

"Really, now, my friend, I have nothing to say about that," said the Mayor.

"Well, say something about something or anything! Jump on me or cuss me or any old thing; just so you say so tething," said the reporter in desperation.

"But I have no reason to is really nothing to talk abou "Don't you think you cou say something; run down the paper o make some sort of a kick?"

His Honor smiled again on interviewer and good-naturedly young man a cigar.

From what Chung Fo says Lea was way-laid by Highbinders, who to satisfy an old grudge robbed him and threw him into the river.

Fo says that three years ago Lea told the Police Department of a game of fan tan which was being run openly on Eighth street, near "Hop Alley," and in which he had lost several hundred dollars. The game was raided by Chief Desmond's detectives, and following upon this Lea got a letter written in the Cantonese characters and which told him to leave town immediately or he would be killed.

He consulted Chief Desmond and was advised to pay no attention to the matter.

When his body was taken out of the river Thursday morning the queue had been cut off, the money was gone and the pearl ring was missing.

The Platform.

The Platform.

It would be folly to ignore and impossible to exaggerate the gravity of the conditions under which this convention assembles. Most of the other States of the Union have selected and commissioned their delegates to the National Convention. By a movement, evidently concerted, but, as we believe, ill-advised and ill-conceived, instructions have been given to the delegations of a large number of States having for their aim and purpose the adoption of a new policy and a new platform for the Democratic party.

No opportunity for a fair and deliberate consideration of such a policy and platform has been afforded the Democracy of the State of New York. Upon such new matter thus proposed to be incorporated among the tenets of the party, it becomes the duty off the Democrats of New York, representing their people, so speak in no equivocal terms.

Gold and aliver, the money of the Consistion and of our fathers, each at a parity with the other in purchasing power, has been the platform of principles procaimed by every national Democratic convention, which has thus adopted and resuffirmed in each declaration of party faith for a century the wisdom of Thomas Jefferson, who said: "The monetary units must stand on both metals." The action of the Republican Congress and a Republican President deprived silver of its equality with gold for the money and currency of the nasion. From this act (for which the Democratic party was in no wise responsible) and from the action of other nations following in the same course, it has resulted that silver has gready declined in commercial value, and there now exists a wide departure of the two metals from the coinage standard of value, bringing disturbance to the finances of European countries as well as to our own, and awakening there, as here, the earnes: apprehension of statesmen and inanciers.

The "estoration of the equilibrium of the two metals is to suit of the party was in no with the departure of the two metals from the coinage standard of value, and manciers.

ilman Horton's Measure to Create the Office of Dandscape Gardener Meeting Opposition.

Mr. Horton's proposition is to hire an expert landscape gardener artist at 3200 per month.

Whether Mr. Horton's design is to have the park flower beds replaited, and the winding walks straightened out, or the straight walks made winding. Is not set forth in his bill. The only two things definitely set forth is that the man who gets the job must be a landscape gardener, and that he can draw against the City Treasury for 200 at the end or every monon, More than that, or during good behavior.

Delegate C. W. Watson of the Twenty-fifth Ward says he shall certainly oppose the bill when it comes up in the House.

"There is no earthly use for such an additional officer." said Mr. Watson. "It here is then the office of Park Commissioner should be abolished and that of City Landscaper' created. Besides that, the Superintendent of Park is so understood when Mr. Pape was appointed to the place.

"What has he got to do, and what is he paid for, if it is not for this very thing of beautifying the parks? More than this, the Park Commissioner is supposed to be selected with special reference to his artistic table in the landscape line. The Commissioner and his Superintendent do not have to look after the conduct of park visitors. We maintain a very finely appointed police of the conduct of park visitors. We maintain a very finely appointed police of the conduct of park visitors. We maintain a very finely appointed police of the conduct of park visitors. We maintain a very finely appointed police of the conduct of park visitors. We maintain a very finely appointed police of the conduct of park visitors. We maintain a very finely appointed police of the conduct of park visitors. We maintain a very finely appointed police of the conduct of park visitors. We maintain a very finely appointed police of the conduct of park visitors. The allegate is a solution of the conduct of park visitors, we can discuss the conduct of park visitors. The commissioner and his superintendent of not have to look after the create a fat office for som man can do the work way at all as I understand it.

"Of course everybody knows that the, office of Park Commissioner at $3,500 a year is chiefly ornamental and the man who draws the balary is not chosen so much for his fitness for the place, as that he is the special friend of the Mayor. But it is supposed that the superlitendent of the parks is an artist when it comes to landscaping. Mr. Pape was at least a successful florist, but whether that carries with it a thorough knowledge of how to lay out flower and plant beds and construct pretty walks around them, etc., I do not know.

"I do know, however, that there is not work enough for two landscape artists, for all that one has to do is to map out the work for a small army of subordinates to do.

"The parks are in pretty good shape so far as platted flower beds and roadways, walks, etc., are concerned, and I think we can struggle along without a high-salaried landscape artist."

called out something in Italian and ngms appeared. Faces were seen in doors and windows.

"What about selling bananas on Sunday?" said Mr. Pamsina to a man who stood in a doorway, "I am the captain of Dago alley and I want to know."

The man addressed answered: "Listen to me, Charlie Pamsina. I have nothing against you, but I will, I must sell bananas on Sunday. You should know how it is, my friend. We sometimes have bananas left over after Saturday that will spoil if left over Sunday. What can we do? We must sell them?"

"Then, may the wrath of God fall on you," said Pamsina, his dark eyes gleaming with a dangerous light. "May a tornado wreck your home and bury you beneath the ruins, for a man who sells bananas on Sunday commits a crime and will surely be punished by the Aimighty God."

After this the reporter and his Italian friend hurried from Foster alley, for angry volces were heard.

A note received by the Elkins Thursday morning adds mystery to the affair. It was signed with Mrs. Weber's name and read thus:

The strange and disquieting part of this communication was that the handwriting was not that of Mrs. Weber. It is this hat makes Mrs. Elkins believe that her niece has met with foul play.

Mrs. Weber was Il years of age. She was a pretty girl. Her husband has been dead for nearly two years. She had one child, of which she was very fond.

Like the widows on the stage, Mrs. Weber was partial to the company of gentlemen and received many callers at the Elkins house. Among them was Otto Guiger, who until recently was a waiter at the Forest Park Cottage.

Last Monday evening he called on Mrs. Weber at her home and spent several hours with her. Mr. Elkins heard him remark that he had given up his job at the Cottage and was thinking of going to Kansas City or Chicago.

Tuesday morning about 11 o'clock Guiger, accompanied by a man named Smith, called City Hospital Thursday night he told the Post-Dispatch reporter his story.

The wound reaches from the center of the chest to the left side, making a hole just under the skin. It is considered very slight.

"I met Mrs. Fisher and her daughter in Charleston, S. C., four years ago," said Stanley. "We went to Ocala, Fla., where Mrs. Fisher and myself were married, but since then she has always been known as Mrs. Fisher. This was her third marriage. She secured a divorce from her first husband, but not from the second, who is now living.

"We came to St. Louis and I started a grocery store on Easton avenue, but falled, and then went to work as a bookkeeper for the Missouri Wrecking Co. A year ago I left them and have since been living at I'll Morgan street.

"Mrs. Fisher and her daughter have been writing letters to me and I have kept up a correspondence. She threatened to get a divorce from me and I wrote to her and protested.

vorce from me and I wrote to her and pro-tested.

"Last night I met Marie, the daughter of Mrs. Fisher, in front of their home at 1129 North Leonard avenue. She was with Red-ding, who brought her home.

"I began reproaching the girl for the let-ters she had written to me and raised-my umbrella to rest it on my shoulder. As I did so Redding thought I was going to strike and he pulled out his revolver and shot me."

Redding, who is locked in a cell at the Third Sub-Station, says that Stanley drew his revolver and shot at the girl twice and then he shot Stanley to protect the girl. Miss Fisher tells a similar story and says the cause of Stanley's anger was that she refused to listen to a proposal he made to her.

Mrs. Fisher says she will get a divorce from Stanley, although she admits she was not divorced from Fisher.

Baby's Bath.

A mother who had nearly broken her back in stooping to bathe her baby bought not long ago a well-made pine table of medium size, containing a good-sized drawer. She had the legs cut down so that the table stood about 12 inches high, and white porcelain castors fastened to each Jeg. The table was first painted with white paint, and then with white enamel, and the drawer divided into compartments. Such a table provided a convenient and safe support for a bath tub, and with a chair provided proportioned to its height, the bath may be given while scated. All the necessaries for the bath—powder, brushes, soaps, dry sponges—may be kept in the drawer, thus saving many a step. No. 2 corn, sound, dry and reasonably clean.

This corn was shipped from Wichita for the purpose of advertising Kansas and booming McKinley, and originally consisted of forty cars; but being struck by a cyclone the night before it started for St. Louis, three cars were wrecked. Portraits of Gov. McKinley had been posted on each side of each car, and all saye two or three of these were torn off. The cars were otherwise decorated, but with these decorations the storm did not interfere.

This corn is as good as any lot of corn I have inspected this year. However, of the thirty-seven cars, I found only three er four of standard gold. The rest of it had a sliver lining; and this leads me to predict that an election will strike the Major in November, and blow the electoral vote over to a free silver candidate.

Concession and Combination.

To the Editor of the Fost-Diapatch.

The effort of the bolting silver delegates to have Senator Teller placed at the head of the ticket by the Chicago Convention is futile. It would be most unfit for the Democratic party to turn down Bland, whose efforts are second to no man's in the country in behalf of silver, and whose following is as ten to one to that of an outsider no matter how earnest and worthy. But I believe the party is ready and willing to grant Teller any other position—the second place on the ticket, or the Treasury portfolio—either of which he could fill acceptably to the people and with honor to himself. In fact, these three most important positions should be apportioned to the three Western silver organisations, and would suggest senator Allen of the Populist party as a fitting member of this trio. Bland, Teller and Allen, a trio Wall street can't bluff at any stage of the game.

Concession and combination should be the watchword of all these opposed to the gold standard, with all that that implies, remembering the enormous situal fund plutocracy can and will use to defeat the will of the people.

Superintendent of Fire Amrm Bina E. Benedict states that his suggestions as to the difficulties in the way of putting the wires underground have been misunderstood.

"I am in favor of burying all the wires," said he. "Any sane man would be, particularly in my position. I think, however, that it would be wise to remove the fire alarm office to Twenty-second street or wherever the subway boundary may be, without delay. If this is done there will be no need of fuses to protect the cabled wires from severe currents coming from the pole wires. "It is entirely practicable to protect the cable wires with fuses, but it is possible that by so doing we may lose the use of a pole circuit temporarily, and at the very time it would be most needed. For instance, a pole circuit, with say twenty boxes on it, may receive a current that will burn out the fuse. This would cut it of from the subway and from the central office. It might be impossible to repair the damage for several hours, and during that time the territory covered by that pole circuit would be without means of turning in an alarm.

"With the central office on the border line, however, the cabled wires would come in one side and the pole lines on the other, and the buried wires would never be disturbed. "It is already decided to move the central office from the Court-house, and what I want is to have it located where the buried wires will be in absolutely no danger."

Conrad's 2712 Franklin Av. KILLED BY A CLOUDBURST.

Lives Lost and Property Destroyed in West Virginia.

WHEELING, W. Va., June 3.-Report from Marshall, Wetzel and Tyler Counties years, was employed in the factory which immediately south of here, are to the effect that great damage has been done and some fell before the wind, but none of her com-panions could remember whether she worked the day of the storm or not. She worked the day of the storm or not. She had started from her home at 2722 Russell avenue early that morning, intending to go to work, but if she did work, sone of the factory hands could remember.

The police started to find the owner of the parasol. It did not belong to any of the women whose bodies were recovered. It might have been Alma Doerstel's, so a visit was made to the home on Russell avenue.

The house was a wreck and the ruins were deserted. It had been a small establishment and its only occupant had been Mrs. Doerstel and her two daughters. The police made several visits to the place within the few days following upon the storm but the wreckage was there undisturbed and with no one to guard the goods beneath the fallen walls.

Then it was thought the occupants of the house might have been buried under the debris and laborers removed the weekage but no bodies were found and no signs of a human being.

The police then forgot all about the fam. day. The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad track and other property was damaged to the extent of $30,000, by the washouts. In Tyler County, in the vicinity of Sistersville, the storm caused the most havoc.

A mile below Sistersville the Ohio Railway was washed out for a mile and a half. Several houses were washed away and and the occupants narrowly escaped after ropes were thrown to them. Several instances of teams being washed away are reported There were five men in one wagon and only two of them were rescued alive.

New Martinsville, Wetzel County, is in great danger, and the inhabitants of the village have taken to the hills.

debris and laborers removed the wreckage but no bodies were found and no signs of a human being.

The police then forgot all about the family, believing that they had moved to a place of safety the evening of the tornado. Wednesday, a week after the storm, a demented woman of 50 years was taken from the ruins of St. John's Church, on Eighth street and Lafayette avenue, to the South Branch Disymsary, where all she could say was "Aina is dead."

She cried continuously, and would not be consoled. As she left the dispensary for the hospital she said her name was Mrs. Doerstel. After keeping her at the City Hospital for a week she was transferred to the Insane Asylum.

While in the hospital she stood at her cell door, clasped her hands up near her throat, leaned her head over to one side, and, swinging her body slightly from side to side, wept, "Aima is dead." Sometimes she sang it and in sobbing those were the only utterances audible.

She stood there all of each day and most of the night. She ate little, but never did anything without muttering the death of har daughter.

Where the body of Alma can be is not known. It was her parasol which was found by Sergt. Mansfield. The ruins of the factory have been thoroughly searched. The wreckage of the home has been gone over, but nothing found. It is not known where the other daughter is and the whereabouts of Alma's body is a mystery. JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., June 25 .- Dur-JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., June 25.—During a severe storm here the Orphans' Home, where 40 inmates are confined, was struck by lightning. A panie followed, but the children escaped injury. Mrs. John Mauzee and Mr. Ernest were struck by lightning. Frank Eberts, a miller, also received a shock, and is in a precarious condition. Streams are running out of their banks, and the surrounding country for miles is inundated.

Cloudburst in Kentucky.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., June 25.—One of the most destructive cloudbursts ever known in this county burst in the vicinity of Lafayette. Fields of wheat and oats were washed away. Destructive gales ac-companied the rain, and large tracts of land are under water. Barns, fencing and houses were swept away.

Killed by Lightning.

MALVERN, Ark., June 25.—During the progress of a severe rain and electric storm at Princeton, Thomas Kelly was instantly killed by a bolt of lightning, Polk Schrimshire was badly maimed, and the horses that they were riding received severe shocks. NEW BADEN'S DEATH LIST.

As Stated by His Wife Got Her a Divorce in Withrow's Court.

The Enforcement of the Inspection Law Is Again Postponed. WASHINGTON, D. C., June 25.—On the was in Withrow's Court.

Judge Withrow divorced Amada B, Wilkinson from Ferdinand R. Wilkinson. There was no defense, although he answered with a general denial. She complained that he was drunk every week and sometimes for several weeks at a time; also that he was very abusive and often slapped her.

She alleged that he was also greatly addicted to gambling, and wasted his money so that nothing was left to pay rent. She specified nearly a dozen houses from which they had moved in two or three years because the rent was not paid.

They were married in May, 1879, and lived together until last February. There are four children, Francis, aged 18; Lulu, 13; Emily, 10, and Allen, aged 3. She was awarded their custody.

IS EFFORTS TO KNOCK OUT TOM SHARKEY A DISMAL FAILURE.

JUST FIGHT TO A FINISH

sentleman Jim But Upon the Defensive by His Muscular Opponent-Called It a Draw-Notes.

fon Jim Corbett climbed down last night rom his pedestal of puglistic greatness and at the same time husky Tom Sharkey, who was eight months ago a mere blue-jacket at the Mare Island Navy Yard, mounted to the top notch in the sporting and take blows with Corbett for twelve minutes and at the end of the fight they saw an undefeated world's champion hang-ing around his opponent's neck, weak, list-less, panting and leaning against the ropes less, panting and leaning against the ropes to prevent himself from falling.

As it was, the fight was declared a draw. Had it lasted a few rounds more there might have been a different story to tell—a story that would make puglistic history. There are those in San Francisco to-day—and their number is legion—who say that twelve more minutes of fighting last night would have made a new world's champion.

Corbett went into the ring smiling and confident. He came out of it trembling and crestfallen. He had not only failed to stop the sailor in four rounds, as he and his thousands of admirers confidently expected he would, but he narrowly escaped being a whipped man. Round after round that the first surprise occurred. The sailor, crowded to the wall by his opponent, turned much after the manner of a cornered rat, and began to fight.

Round 3—Corbett started hostilities by landing in the region of Sharkey's stomach and followed it up with a left upper-cut. Corbett was trying hard for a knock-out blow, and after a series of feints swilng his right on Sharkey's body. Several clinches followed, the referee having a hard time to get the men apart. Sharkey got an upper-cut on the mouth which had a tendency to make him grogsy, but he clinched when Corbett rushed after him and being a whipped man. Round after round the champion's admirers cheered and below on Corbett's cheek, but the latter re-one of them had landed I would have and a fractured skull.

"If my seconds had made the claim I would have secured the decision on fouls. Sharkey was continually giving me the shoulder and cross buttock: But my seconds had instructions to claim no fouls.

"About the $10,000 proposition to fight to a finish; I am ready for Sharkey at once. Let him cover the money and all arrangements will be made at once for the affair. I am going to leave the city in a few days, so he mist act quickly. Finish fights are what I desire, not four-round battles, in which a man cannot fight scientifically, but must slug and wrestle."

The fight itself was a good deal of a disappointment. There was more clinching than punching. The gallery called it a "wrestling match" in derision. The fight by rounds:

Round 1—corbett opened by endeavoring.

"wrestling match" in derision. The fight by rounds:
Round 1—Corbett opened by endeavoring to have Sharkey show his hand. The sailor was shy and shifty. He danced about the stage feinting and ducking, but he kept clear of the champion's right, which was poised as if on a swivel, waiting to hook him under the chin. The crowd held its breath until the men came together. Tired of waiting for the champion to lead, the sailor undertook to reach Corbett's nose. He missed his target and got a punch in the face that almost closed one of his eyes. Corbett's face wore a smile throughout the first round. He hit the sailor almost at will, and when the gong sounded the sailor's chances of staying in the ring seemed decidedly uncertain.

Choynski, now in California, have been virtually matched, Arrangements, as made, although no articles of agreement have yet been signed, call for the men to battle at 162 pounds for the largest purse that can be secured.

Col. John D. Hopkins and Charles E. Davies, their respective managers, have been hobnobbing for some time with regard to bringing the men together. The former held out for 155 pounds for Dan, while Davies was not anxious to have Joe enter the ring below 165. Hopkins was the first to give way by proposing to match his protege at 162 pounds, which, after nearly a month's haggling, Davies gave way to.

When or where the contest will take place depends entirely on the purse question, but from the present outlook the East will get the fight. Choynski and Creedon met in a six-round bout at Tattersalls over a year ago, in which the former had considerably the best of the argument. Credon, however, was not in the best of condition at the time and does not hesitate to say he can deteat Joe, and Col. Hopkins thicks likewise.

Shaped Clouds. There was a panic at the Fair Ground

There was a panic at the Fair Grounds race track yesterday afternoon just at the conclusion of the fifth race, which would a month ago have caused much comment and excited much sarcasm. It passed as perfectly rational and reasonable yesterday.

A huge black, green cloud bore down upon the track from the west. The crowd fled over fences and cut through gates until the stand was empty. Men who have the nerve to stake their last dollar on a horse climbed a hedge, a wire fence and a picket fence to reach the open field inside the track. There the crowd stayed until the rain chased it indoors again. The last race was called off and put upon the card as the first race to-day. Many of the bookmakers shut up shop without walting for the judge to declare the race off.

The programme of to-day will consist of the left over race of yesterday and the six of to-day, with the first two merged into one.

his gigantic real estate swindles, is dead. He succumbed to consumption Tuesday night. Trask was notorious for the daring of his ventures.

After he had been sentenced and was serving his term his methods were called to mind again by the sensational arrest of the murderer, H. H. Holmes. Trask and Holmes had been partners in several games for the fleecing of wealthy strangers in Chicago under pretense of conducting a real estate sale. After Holmes' execution in Philadelphia a few weeks ago, Trask fell into deep melancholy, and it is said he never smiled after hearing of his old companion's death.

Trask was 49 years old. He was born in a village near Joliet, and passed most of his life in Manhattan, another village in the vicinity. Trask came of a good family, and his parents spent thousands of dollars trying to save him from disgrace.

ADMINISTRATORS' MORTGAGES.

Street Obstruction.

SPRINGFIELD, Iil., June 25.—The Attorney-General has rendered an opinion that where a bicycle rider has been injured by running over brickhats, glass or other obstacles in the public streets he has no recourse at law against the city authorities, but can secure damages from the person throwing or placing the obstacles in the streets. The city authorities could not be held responsible unless it could be proven that they had been notified of the obstructions, and, by negligence, falled to remove the same. That case would probably fix the responsibility upon the city. The question is a new one and of some importance to a bicycle rider and citizens who make a practice of dumping matter into public streets.

"The English Unionists and Imperialists will accept the result with regret. It is true that neither party (in Canada) is other than loyal to the imperial connection. Still, the Liberals have dallied dangerously with reciprocity with the United States, and it is among the Canadian Conservatives that there is the keenest feeling in favor of a zollverein. The Americans are rapidly beating us out of the Canadian market, and Laurier and his friends will do nothing to stop the process, nor, we fear, is the spirited project to unite Canada with Great Britain and Australia by fast steamships likely to be pushed with much vigor. But Laurier is an able man and, we believe, a sincere patriot, and will probably do no great harm during his tenure of office, which, in any case, is not likely to last long."

CANADIAN' SCHOOLS.

Though the Liberals Have Won, the Conservatives Are Hopeful as to Laurier's Policy.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 25.-A sperial to the Tribune from Winipeg says: The defeat of the Tupper Governmen whose platform was the re-establishment of Catholic parochial schools in Manitoba, has caused the wildest enthusiasm in Western Canada and such wild scenes have never

While the Liberals were sanguine of elect While the Liberals were sanguine of electing sufficient members of the Dominion Parliament to block the Government school measure, they never dared to hope to completely oust the Tupper Government, as they have done. The Conservatives, to whom the disaster was altogether unexpected, are in a dazed condition. The Liberal organs now emphatically declare that Manitoba's national school system is absolutely after from interference.

However, Conservatives are quite as positive that now that Laurier, who is a Frenchman and a Catholic, has come into power, he will demand that Catholic schools be restored. There will be a great deal of anxiety until it is discovered what Laurier's policy is in this respect. All are agreed, however, that one of his first moves will be to treat with Washington for reciprocity of trade between Canada and the States, and the results of the Liberal victory in Canada will be fraught with the most important results to the business interests of Uncle Sam.

The four Northwest Territories' constitutions.

results to the business interests of Uncie Sam.

The four Northwest Territories' constituencies for the first time in history send a solid delegation, including Laurier, who this time stood for a Westgarn riding. There is but one great regret in the West, and that is that Sir Charles Tupper will not be in power to carry out his pet scheme of constructing a railroad from the shores of Hudson Bay, giving Western Canada a shorter route to European markets. The Liberals do not favor this scheme, and so for a time, no doubt, it is dead.

LONDON, June 25.—A Cape Town dispatch to the Times says that John Hays Hammond will sail from there for home today. The dispatch also says:

A telegram from Salisbury says that the whole country around that point has arisen and relief is anxiously awaited, many outlying places being defenseless.

A telegram from Fort Chester announces that that point is surrounded by rebels and the inmates have laagered. All their actile have been captured by the rebels, who killed the native herdsmen.

There is an intense feeling concerning Cape Town, there being so many well known people in danger.

The Dally Telegraph has a dispatch from Pretoria, dated June 24, which says that circumstantial rumors are in circulation there that Salisbury has been attacked by the rebellious natives and captured, about 50 whites having been killed in the assault and fearfully multilated.

An of the four riders were eager to contest from the very first, but the question of whether it should be a paced or unpaced race caused a whole lot of trouble. Harding wanted tandem pace and Laing supported him. Grath and Knower wanted an unpaced race. Grath gave way little by little. First he proposed that every man should agree to take his share of pace-making. This proposition was made in reply to a statement of Harding's but he effect that Grath and Knower wanted to make the race a "loaf" or force him and Laing to do the "donkey work." This did not suit Laing. Then Grath went aim one better and offered to accept single pacing. Laing and Knower agreed to this, but Harding was firm. No tandem, no race, was his ultimatum. Tired of the wrangis Grath gave in.

The invitations, which were quite unique, were written by the hostess in rhyme. The table was decorated with sweet peas and ferns. At each plate lay a corsage bouquet, tied with pink and white ribbons, with a card containing a device designating some characteristic of each young lady, by means of which they discovered their different places. This caused much merriment among the guests.

The menu cards were very handsome. The centerpiece was of fine white linen, embroidered with sweet peas. There were plate doylies to match—the work of the accomplished hostess.

IS REWARDED AFTER TWENTY-FIVE YEARS' SEPARATION.

STREET NAME BAFFLED HIM

Davis, but No One Seemed to Remember the Change.

The reunic harles and Will Riley and their sister, Mrs. E. H. Wisker, who were parted in their infancy a quarter of a century ago, has exemplified the old saying that truth is stranger than fiction.
In 1871 the Rileys lived in St. Louis on what was then known as Davis street. The family consisted of the father, John Riley; the mother, Bridget, and three children Charles, aged 6; Will, aged 4, and Annie was seldom at home.

The mother was stricken with an illness that proved fatal, and the family was broken up. The boys were sent to an orphan asylum on Clark avenue, while Annie was adopted by a neighbor, Mrs. Cavanaugh, a friend of the Rileys.

As if to make to make the separation more complete Charles was taken from the orphan asylum and was given a home with a farmer near Glencoe, Mo. Another farmer from near Frederickstown. Mo., adopted Will. At this time the children were too young to appreciate the importance of the events, and they did not know of the movements of each other. Time passed, and they outgrew childhood, and the desire to again be together was strong in the breast of each, but how to attain it was the difficulty.

of each, but how to attain it was the difficulty.

When Charles was a lad of 12 or 14 years the hard work and lack of excitement on the farm grew trksome, and he resolved to abandon it. Knowing that his adopted father would not consent to his leaving, he ran away and set his face toward the far West. He went to the Pacific coast, and managed to find employment, and at the same time to attend school and pick up a fairly good education.

When he approached manhood he began railroading, and soon was a conductor. Later he gave up this and was engaged in mining. He was successful, and at one time he had a nice property, but reverses came, and he went back to railroading. For ten years he was conductor on the Northern Pacific Railroad, with headquarters in Minnesota.

He managed to keep track of his brother city on the 17th of last December and secured a position with the Terminal Railroad.

He remembered that at the time of his mother's death their home was on Davis street. He consulted the directory and the only Davis street mentioned was in South St. Louis. He visited that place but was satisfied he was not on the right track.

He hardly knew which way to turn, when he chanced to think that the directory of 1870 might give him some light. He found in this that in 1870 there was a Davis street in North St. Louis, and by comparison he learned that the name some years ago had been changed to Dickson street.

Inspired with new hope he again took up his search. He walked along Dickson street last Monday, and, entering a store, bought a cigar. While lighting it, he inquired of the proprietor if he had ever heard of a street in the neighborhood that was formerly known as Davis street. The merchant had only been in the city a few years, and knew of no such a street.

An old man who had overheard the conversation spoke up and said that Dickson street, Then Riley asked him if he knew of a family named Riley, who lived there 25 years ago. The old man answered that he knew a Mrs. Riley, who now lives on Dickson street, who had lived there for nearly 50 years.

Riley went to Mrs. Riley, who was no relative, and learned that she was an old friend of his family and was present at his mother's death. She knew nothing of the present whereabouts of his sister, but thought that Officer Jerry McCarty could assist him.

Officer McCarty remembered Riley's sister well and said she married a young man named Wisker, but he did not know where

Officer McCarty remembered Riley's sister well and said she married a young man named Wisker, but he did not know where they lived, but he knew that Wisker's parents resided at 1435 St. Louis avenue, and thither Riley was directed.

A young lady answered his ring. He inquired if she knew a Mrs. Wisker, who was formerly a Miss Riley.

"Why, that is my sister-in-law," was the reply, "and she lives at 1836 Palm street." the reply, "and she lives at 1998 Falls street."

Riley, elated at his success, proceeded at once to the number given. He rang the bell, but got no answer, and he inquired of a neighbor of Mrs. Wisker lived there. He learned that she did, but had gone out to spend the day and would not return until evening.

Riley made himself known and said he would return at 7 o'clock in the evening.

When Mrs. Wisker got home the neighbor told her a gentleman that had called was exceedingly anxious to see her. Without Cupid breaks his bow at the sight of a face full of pimples and blotches. Hollow cheeks, sunken eyes, and a sailow complexion will defy his best intentions. Beauty is more than skin deep. The skin is merely the surface on which is written in plain characters the condition of the body. The skin is more at thing by itself, and skin diseases are frequently not skin diseases at all. All the lotions and bleaches and creams and powders in the world won't make a good complexion if the digestion is wrong. If the stomach is sour, and the liver torpid, and the bowels constipated, the skin will show it. No use trying to treat the skin for such a condition. The only way to relieve it is to cleanse the system and purify the blood. As long as the heart is pumping impurities to every part of the body, just so long these impurities will show through the skin.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is good for the complexion because it makes the whole body hea.thy—because it clears and purifies the blood, makes the digestion strong and clears out impurities of all kinds. By increasing the ability to assimilate nutritious food, and by the infusion of its own ingredients, it enriches the blood and so makes solid, healthy flesh. It fills out the hollows, rubs out wrinkless and substitutes for sallowness a rosy, healthy glow. There is no mystery about it. It isn't a miracle. It is merely the result of a combination of rational, natural common sense with expert medical knowledge. It cures diseases spring from the same cause—a disordered digestion and consequent impure blood. Don't let prejudice and scepticism cheat you out of your health. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will positively cure yon, if suffering from diseases named above.

About the time Charles ran away from the farm at Glencoe, Will concluded to do the same thing, and the brothers were together for a while. Like Charles, Will went to railroading, and finally drifted to Arkansas, where he found employment on the Union Pacific. For a number of years he has been a conductor and his head-quarters are at Argenta.

When Mrs. Wisker heard of Will's being the has been a conductor and his head-quarters are at Argenta.

When Mrs. Wisker heard of Will's being located at Argenta she was treated to another surprise. John Murtagh, a brother of her mother, has lived at Argenta for a number of years. He is a machinist, but never knew that his nephew was living so close to him. It was only 2 few weeks ago that Mr. Murtagh was in St. Louis, the guest of his niece, and he and Mrs. Wisker had many conversations regarding her brothers, and they devised plans for finding them if possible.

After her mother's death Annie, who was only 2 years old, was adopted by a Mrs. Cavanaugh and was raised as her own daughter. She was taken to another part of the city and grew up knowing nothing of her brothers, aside from what was told her by Mrs. Cavanaugh. When the boys were taken from the orphan asylum there was no record left of them and although she made many attempts to learn something of them she falled, and had almost reconciled herself to the belief that she would never see them again.

Four years ago Annie was married to E. H. Wisker, who has charge of the teams of the Paddock-Hawley Iron Company. They are comfortable and happy in a neat home at 1936 Palm street.

Last Monday Mrs. Wisker celebrated her 7th birthday. In the morning as her husband was leaving for his work he asked her the question: "If you could have any one wish gratified what would you ask for?"

Without hesitation Mrs. Wisker replied that she would prefer above all things to see her two brothers. That very day her the question: "If you could have any one wish gratified what would you ask for?"

Without hesitation Mrs. Wisker replied that she would prefer above all things to see her two brothers. That very day Charles Riley found his sister.

Mr. Riley teigraphed his brother Will, at Argenta, that he had at last found his sister and asked him to come to St. Louis at once. Will was out on his run, and did not receive the news until Tuesday. He at once replied and said he would arrive in the city Thursday night.

WAR ON THE WAR DEPARTMENT Musicians' Union Objects to the Cav blown up.

The trouble arises from the competition of the Third Cavalry Band at Jefferson Barracks with civilian musicians. Since the Southern Electric road built double tracks all the way to the Government reservation, it has made great efforts to make the barracks a resort for picnics and excursions. Dodgers were scattered broadcast, advertising the drills of the soldiers and the music of the cavalry band as attractions.

the music of the cavalry band as attractions.

This stirred up the Musicians' Mutual Benefit Association. They have had this trouble before, and their Secretary. Owen Miller, wrote Gen. Joseph B. Doe, Assistant Secretary of War, on the subject. He reminded the official of a promise given him last whiter to the effect that if it could ever be shown that soldier bands competed with civilians at ruinous rates that it would be rectified.

Mr. Miller then proceeded to show that the Cavalry Band was paid by the street car company 50 cents a concert, there being three concerts a day. He objected strenuously to this competition on the ground that no civilian musician, whether a union man or not, could compete with it. He point.

ously to this competition on the ground that no civilian musician, whether a union man or not, could compete with it. He pointed out the unfairness of the competition by reason of the fact that the soldiers are ciothed, housed and fed and paid a salary as soldiers. What they pick uplas musicians is so much extra.

Mr. Miller also objected to the Southern Electric road having its dodgers printed on the Barracks printing presses, instead of giving work to idle men in St. Louis.

This letter was sent in May. The Assistant Scoretary answered it immediately, stating that there would be an investigation. On June 13 he sent another letter informing Mr. Miller that the Department Commander reported that no regulations had been violated in the matter in question. Mr. Miller replied to this savagely. He roasted the War Department, declaring that it was opposing the tax-payers. Nothing further has been heard by him from Washington, and the band plays on.

The Musicians' Union will try to take the matter before Congress and have the competition stopped.

ORIENTAL ATTACHED

Bar of the New Theater Taken Charge Of by a Hard-Hearted Constable.

After the second act at the Oriental Room Garden Theater, Wednesday night patrons of the bar were rudely interrupted by the entrance of a constable from Justice Han-ley's court with a writ of attachment. ley's court with a writ of attachment.

The instrument had been secured from Justice Hanley during the afternoon by the Buxton & Skinner Stationary Co. It was directed against the Oriental Amusement Co., and contemplated the selsure of the box office receipts as well as the receipts at the bar and the bar fixtures. The company had been warned of the contemplated invasion and when the constable appeared there was nothing in the coardinate of the contemplated invasion and when the constable appeared there was nothing in the coardinate of the contemplated invasion and when the constable took office to selse. The money in the cash drawer in the bar was also at a low ebb. The constable took possession, however, and all business subsequently transacted in the garden was under his personal supervision. He was still in charge Thursday morning.

The attachment was in satisfaction of a bill for sli00 for printing. It was explained at the theater Thursday morning that the bill was disputed by the Oriental Amusement Co, on the contention that items were included for articles not ordered by the company. company.

It was said that a settlement would be reached during the day. reached during the day.

The statement went abroad during the evening that the performers at the theater had refused to proceed with their parts until they had received their salaries.

It is claimed that this arose from the fact that the performers had a contract from the company for the payment of their salaries weekly and that they had been paid their salaries before the performance in anticipation of the Constable's visit.

Mrs. S. W. Lee of 4862 Morgan street gave a pretty luncheon to the following young ladies Wednesday afternoon: Misses Haynes, Annie Haynes, Bertha Gratiot, Evelyn Currier, Dalsy Mediar and Lady Earborough of Memphis, Tenn.

The invitations, which were quite unique, were written by the hostess in rhyme. The table was decorated with sweet peas and ferns. At each plate lay a corsage bouquet, tied with pink and white ribbons, with a card containing a device designating some characteristic of each young lady, by means of which they discovered their different places. This caused much merriment among the guests.

The menu cards were very handsome. The centerplece was of fine white linen, embroidered with sweet peas. There were plate doylles to match—the work of the accomplished hostess.

Miss Lady Scarborough; a beautiful girl, just out of school, was the guest of honor.

It stated that the death of the deceased we have considered. death of the deceased was his own act, ac-death of the deceased was his own act, accomplished without the knowledge of any one.

The deceased had been despondent for several days. He recently failed in a business transaction, which depressed him considerably. He had been gradually losing money for several years, although in earlier years he had accumulated a considerable sum. Several months ago Williams took poison, but his attempt at self-destruction was discovered in time.

The deceased was prominent in A. P. A. circles and while Garbage Inspector was much talked of by reason of his crusade against Col. Ed Butler, whom he accused of failure to carry out his contract as City Scavenger. Although II years old, the deceased was hale and hearty and as vigorous as a man twenty years younger.

Irreverent Boys Drag Human Bones
Through the Streets. The residents of the neighborhood about the old Missouri Medical College, Twenty-

IS REWARDED AFTER TWENTY FIVE YEARS' SEPARATION.

Dickson Street Used to Be Called Davis, but No One Seemed to Remember the Change.

The reunion of Charles and Will Riley and their sister, Mrs. E. H. Wisker, who were parted in their infancy a quarter of a century ago, has exemplified the old saying family consisted of the father, John Riley; the mother, Bridget, and three children, Charles, aged 6; Will, aged 4, and Annie, aged 2. John Riley, a mate on a steamboat, was seldom at home.

The mother was stricken with an illness that proved fatal, and the family was broken up. The boys were sent to an orphan asylum on Clark avenue, while Annie was adopted by a neighbor, Mrs. Cavanaugh, a friend of the Rileys.

As if to make to make the separation more complete Charles was taken from the orphan asylum and was given a home with a farmer near Glencoe, Mo. Another farmer from near Frederickstown. Mo. adopted Will. At this time the children were too young to appreciate the importance of the events, and they did not know of the movements of each other. Time passed, and they outgrew childhood, and the desire to again be together was strong in the breast of each, but how to attain it was the difficulty.

When Charles was a lad of 12 or 14 years grain be together was strong in the breast of each, but how to attain it was the difficulty.

When Charles was a lad of 12 or 14 years the hard work and lack of excitement on the farm grew irksome, and he resolved to abandon it. Knowing that his adopted father would not consent to his leaving, he ran away and set his face toward the far way and set his face toward the far way. The west to the Pacific coast, and managed to find employment, and at the same time to attend school and pick up a fairly good education.

When he approached manhood he began railroading, and soon was a conductor. Later he gave up this and was engaged in mining. He was successful, and at one time he had a nice property, but reverses came, and he went back to railroading. For ten years he was conductor on the Northern Pacific Railroad, with headquarters in Minnesota.

He managed to keep track of his brother Will during all this time, but he yearned for his sister Annie, whom he had not seen since she was a little 2-year-old tot in their old home in 1871. Charles paid a number of visits to St. Louis to see if he could locate her. But the city had grown and landmarks had disappeared, and each time he was forced to return disappointed.

The desire to find his sister did not lessen and last December he determined to make his home in St. Louis and put in his spare time in looking for her. He came to the city on the 17th of last December and secured a position with the Terminal Railroad.

He remembered that at the time of his security of the security had been was on Davis or the security and the security and the security and the security and secured a position with the Terminal Railroad.

Cupid breaks his bow at the sight of a face full of pimples and blotches. Hollow cheeks, sunken eyes, and a sallow complexion will defy his best intentions. Beauty is more than skin deep. The skin is merely the surface on which is written in plain characters the condition of the body. The skin is merely the surface on which is written in plain characters the condition of the body. The skin is more than skin diseases at all. All the lotions and bleaches and creams and powders in the world won't make a good complexion if the digestion is wrong. If the stomach is sour, and the liver torpid, and the bowels constipated, the skin will show it. No use trying to treat the skin for such a condition. The only way to relieve it is to cleanse the system and purify the blood. As long as the heart is pumping impurities to every part of the pody, just so long these impurities will show through the skin.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is good for the complexion because it clears and purifies the blood makes the digestion strong and clears out impurities of all kinds. By increasing the ability to assimilate nutritious food, and by the infusion of its own ingredients, it enriches the blood and so makes solid, healthy flesh. It fills out the hollows, rubs out wrinkles and substitutes for sallowness a rosy, healthy glow. There is no mystery about it. It isn't a miracle. It is merely the result of a combination of rational, natural common sense with expert medical knowledge. It cures diseases of the lungs, liver, stomach, bowels, skin and scalp, simply because all these diseases spring from the same cause—a disordered diseasion and consequent impure blood. Don't let prejudice and scepticism cheat you' out of your health. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will positively cure you, if sumaring from diseases named above.

If you want to know aundreds of great sether for a while. Like Charles, Will went to railroading, and finally drifted to Arkansas, where he found employment on the Union Pacing. For a number of years he has been a conductor and his headquarters are at Argenta.

When Mrs. Wisker heard of Will's being located at Argenta she was treated to another surprise. John Murtagh, a brother of her mother, has lived at Argenta for a number of years. He is a machinist, but never knew that his nephew was living so close to him. It was only 2 few weeks ago that Mr. Murtagh was in St. Louis, the guest of his niece, and he and Mrs. Wisker had many conversations regarding her brothers, and they devised plans for finding them if possible.

After her mother's death Annie, who was only 2 years old, was adopted by a Mrs. Cavanaugh and was raised as her own daughter. She was taken to another part of the city and grew up knowing nothing of her brothers, aside from what was told her by Mrs. Cavanaugh. When the boys were taken from the orphan asylum there was no record left of them and although she made many attempts to learn something of them she falled, and had almost reconciled herself to the belief that she would never see them again.

Four years ago Annie was married to E. H. Wisker, who has charge of the teams of the Paddock-Hawley Iron Company. They are comfortable and happy in a neathom at 1936 Palm street.

Last Monday Mrs. Wisker celebrated her 2th birthday. In the morning as her husband was leaving for his work he asked her the question: "If you could have any one wish gratified what would you ask for?"

Without hesitation Mrs. Wisker replied that she would prefer shove all things to

Without hesitation Mrs. Wisker replied that she would prefer above all things to see her two brothers. That very day Charles Riley found his sister.
Mr. Riley telgraphed his brother Will, at Argenta, that he had at last found his sister and asked him to come to St. Louis at once. Will was out on his run, and did not receive the news until Tuesday. He at once replied and said he would arrive in the city Thursday night.

Bar of the New Theater Taken Charge Of by a Hard-Hearted Constable.

After the second act at the Oriental Roof arden Theater, Wednesday night patrons of the bar were rudely interrupted by the entrance of a constable from Justice Hanley's court with a writ of attachment.

The instrument had been secured from Justice Hanley during the afternoon by the Buxton & Skinner Stationary Co. It the Buxton & Skinner Stationary Co. It was directed against the Oriental Amusement Co., and contemplated the selzure of the box office receipts as well as the receipts at the bar and the bar fixtures. The company had been warned of the contemplated invasion and when the constable appeared there was nothing in the box office to selze. The money in the cash drawer in the bar was also at a low ebb. The constable took possession, however, and all business subsequently transacted in the garden was under his personal supervision. He was still in charge Thursday morning. The attachment was in satisfaction of a bill for $100 for printing. It was explained at the theater Thursday morning that the bill was disputed by the Oriental Amusement Co, on the contention that items were included for articles not ordered by the included for articles not ordered by the company.

It was said that a settlement would be reached during the day.

The statement went abroad during the evening that the performers at the theater had refused to proceed with their parts until they had received their salaries.

It is claimed that this arose from the fact that the performers had a contract from the company for the payment of their salaries weekly and that they had been paid their salaries before the performance in anticipation of the Constable's visit.

Constable Robert L. Lindsay of the Ninth
Justice of the Peace District has had a peck of trouble ever since he discharged Otto Dierberger, one of his deputies, several weeks ago. The change, it is said, was made for political reasons.
Dierberger, his friends say, is in sympathy with Walbridge, while his successor is claimed to be a Filiey follower. Dierberger tells his friends that his dismissal was due solely to political reasons. At any rate, the complications growing out of the change of deputies has been omicially considered by Mayor Walbridge.

Dierberger had been out of office but a

RIDANS TABULES

Mr. J. H. Moon, the spiritualist

Justice of the Peace of Harrisburg, Arkansas, who was first induced to try Ripans Tabules, as he writes, "by request of a Spirit Mother." in a letter dated Oct. 15, 1895, says, referring to the first box which he obtained: "I found it to be a wonder beyond wonders for the stomach and liver. I used that box, and got our druggist to order others. I have used three boxes in my family," continues Mr. Moon, "and have had no sickness this fall in my family." Mr. Moon also takes occasion to order a box to be sent to a spiritualist who lives at Jonesboro, Ark., Mr. Joe Jackson, who had applied to him for information about the wonderful remedy. "I could not do without was a bunch of well-tea and well-expeted to be cown at the Poor-house. The test showed tuberculosis to exist in twenty-two out of thirty cows examined. Some of these will be killed and subjected to a microscopical examination to find out exactly what condition they are in.

The actual visitation of the city dairies will not begin for a day or two, but it will surely be done very shortly and some startling results are expected.

Dr. Carter, the Milk Inspector, thinks that the disease is quite extensive in the city and he says that he will not drink raw milk under any circumstances. He does not think, however, that the disease is as general as has been stated. He estimates about 50 per cent of the cows are affected.

The work is under the official direction of the state officers, who are assuming the entire responsibility for what is being done.

pected to have little work to do under that head and can perhaps dispose of them in two days.

There are only two general contests, involving a total of 46 delegates. These are from Texas and Nebraska. In both cases the contestants are divided squarely on the currency issue, but as all the regularity in the two instances is on the side of the free silver delegations, it isn't considered at ail probable that the National Committee would dare seat the goldbug factionists. Such gross and outrageous injustice sould do the cause of Mr. Cleveland or the gold standard no material good, anyway, as the silver men have such a pronounced majority that the loss of 46 votes would weaken them so slightly, except possibly in the way of reducing their chances to get the necessary two-thirds majority on the first ballot, that they would scarcely feel the loss.

Following is a sample of the letters that are coming in thick and fast to Secretary George W. Allen since the Republicans sold out to Wall street:

McMINNVILLE, Ore., June 20.—Mr. G. W. Allen, St. Louis, Mo. Dear Sir—This letter is written to give you an idea of the interest taken in the preliminary campaign of Mr. Bland. Ever since the fact that the silver men would control our National Convention has been known, Democrats, Populists and silver Republicans have looked to Silver Dick as their Moses. There are a good many Republicans who cannot support Mc-Kinley on the St. Louis platform. The rank and file of the Democratic party are hoping that the Chicago Convention will nominate a man who will be able to draw these elements to his support. Mr. Bland is such a candidate. He is acceptable to all outsiders, and the Democratis in nominating him would be surrendering nothing, but would have a candidate who is a platform of himself. I have a firm conviction can carry this State by 2,000 managed but on to Chicago stands, but in idea. I could use some d buttons. If there is for the contrary will be the surport of the same how.

Mrs. Lindenlaub Asks Clemency for Her Son, Who tole Wine.

The mother of Lawrence Lindenlaub, the is-year-old lad arrested on the charge of stealing wine from William Lehman, a grocer and saloonkeeper at Third street and Lafayette avenue, has made an appeal to Judge Murphy and Assistant Prosecutor Johnson for elemency.

She says that her husband got credit at Lehman's after she told him not to give it and that when the debt was not paid Lehman's after when the debt was not paid Lehman held the amount out of the salary of her son, who worked in the store.

To make up for his loss, Lawrence took the wine, which was afterwards recovered. Mrs. Lindenlaub says other boys were involved. The mother of Lawrence Lindenlaub, the a raid on his store and cart off all his possessions.

Sam Cohen, a boyish-looking Russian Jew who conducts a small second-hand clothing store at 714 North Ninth street, is minus his wife and is possessed of a horrible fear that his runaway better half will, in company with her parents, make a raid on his store and cart off all his possessions.

Thursday morning he sat in front of his store looking a picture of abject misery. The evening before he had been at the Four Courts seeking police protection. There he told the story that his wife had run away to join her parents and had sent him word that she intended to selice his entire stock and household goods. He was assured that his wife could not lawfully take anything but her own property, and he went away vowing he would give his wife, father-in-law and mother-in-law a hot reception if they made any such attempt.

Cohen looks like a boy of 17, but claims he is over 21. He speaks English with much difficulty and is violent in gesticulation. "My wife," he said to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "got mad and ran away because I would not buy three hats for moents that a man brought in here Saturday. I did not think they were worth 20 cents and when he left my wife said I was no business man and that she had no use for a man who didn't have sense enough to know a good trade when he saw it. Then she ran home to her father."

WORTHLESS LODGE CHECK.

by a "Mr. Stone."

A Russian, calling himself "Mr. Stone," had himself introduced to N. Roitman, a jeweler at 802 Franklin avenue, by Mrs. Kauffman of 1107 Biddle street. He pur-Kauffman of 1107 Biddle street. He purchased a gold watch and chain worth $78.80, to be presented, as he alleged, to a member of Robert E. Cowan Lodge, No. 181, Knights of Pythias.

Roitman met Stone in the ante-room of the lodge-room, in Odd-Fellows Building, Monday night, and gave Stone the watch and chain to show the members. Stone returned from the lodge-room and gave Roitman a check on the Chemical Bank for the amount. It was signed "Henry F. Taylor, Chancellor Commander."

Roitman learned Wednesday that the check was worthless, the lodge did not buy the watch and chain and Mrs. Kauffman knew nothing about Stone.
